SUBJECT: War Memorial Stadium

Per council’s request on April 3, 2012, NCA&T’s assessment of War Memorial Stadium is expected to begin July 19, 2012. We had hoped to begin this assessment in June, however, the project has been delayed due to schedule conflicts and the coordination of needed support resources. Results of this assessment should be available this fall. Upon completion of the assessment, we will convene with NCA&T and consultant Sutton Kennerly and Associates for a review of findings.

During the interim, staff has reviewed the last proposal for renovation of War Memorial Stadium, which was presented at the April 3, 2012 City Council meeting. In reviewing the proposal, staff has identified additional considerations for the area encompassing the stadium. Given that the stadium is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and is located next to a growing university campus, a farmer’s market and the Aycock Historic District, we feel it is important to look at the dynamics of the corridor and any additional potential this may present. We have reached out to some members of the community and representatives with NCA&T to discuss this matter and all have expressed an interest in a more comprehensive approach to the renovation. Having an understanding of NCA&T’s master plan efforts, the significance of the Aycock Historic District, the Farmers’ Market growing needs, and possible synergy of how all components work together will help to ensure a planning effort that serves the needs of the area.

Staff is also working with insight from the Economic Development and the Planning and Community Development Departments to coordinate further planning.

By exploring a comprehensive approach to the area, as opposed to the stadium only, we open additional possible funding strategies and create a more global plan for renovation and surrounding area improvement. We have requested proposals from a consultant to look at funding strategies such as new market tax credits. While this exploration will require some more time it will also provide more options for consideration. We would respectfully request enough additional time to explore these options. The additional time could take 3-6 months.

In the meantime, staff has cordoned off unsafe chairs at the stadium and will begin removing them as soon as possible. We have continued to work with A&T to provide a venue for collegiate baseball and would foresee continuing to work closely with all interested parties as we move forward.

SUBJECT:  Overgrown Lot Update

In a previous memo from June, we reported a record number of overgrown lot complaints being made to the City of nearly 1,200 in early June. As a result of focused efforts including the temporary reassignment of some Planning & Community Development (PCD) staff, the authorization of limited overtime, and the use of interns for some administrative follow up, there are now just over 600 active cases. The number of complaints per week has dropped from more than 200 in June to 55 last week. With the more manageable caseload, initial responses of 3 to 5 days are now within the normal time period.

The warm winter combined with the warm wet spring has contributed to a record number of complaints being reported this year. Surrounding jurisdictions have experienced the same issues as Greensboro. Attached is an article from the High Point Enterprise discussing High Point’s challenges.

Some of the operational changes PCD has put in place will help identify the growing caseload sooner so staff assignments can be made earlier to avoid a major backlog. Since this caseload typically increases in the spring, PCD will include in its FY 13-14 budget request, additional funding for retiree hire backs or other temporary help to assist for the four heaviest months of the year.

The Legal Department has also investigated the notification requirement and the compliance period of other cities. Most municipalities have the same 10 day compliance period after the property owner has been notified that Greensboro utilizes. Winston Salem, by special legislation has a 5 day compliance period.

In our ongoing effort to improve our processes, the Budget and Evaluation Department is conducting an assessment of the Compliance Division (this includes minimum housing code, zoning enforcement and nuisance abatement) and investigating best practices. That report should be available in the fall.

SSS
HIGH POINT — Crews are scrambling to keep up with public nuisance abatement efforts on some of the most unsightly yards in High Point.

City officials said the mild winter meant a proliferation of overgrown lots, which inspectors started checking March 1.

"That's added a month on to the high-grass season," said Katherine Bossi, local codes enforcement supervisor. "We have inspected 1,174 properties for overgrown violations. That's probably about 200 or 300 more than we usually have by this point in the summer."

Grass and weeds higher than 12 inches are considered a public nuisance not because of their appearance, but because of their potential health hazards, in that thick growths provide food and shelter for mosquitoes, ticks, flies, mice and rats, according to Bossi.

Most violations involve residential properties, although the city's nuisance ordinance applies to commercial sites too.

Most cases don't take long to resolve, but some involve vacant properties that are tied up in foreclosure and/or have no clear owner, which makes it difficult to determine who is responsible for upkeep. That can cause a case to drag on for weeks or months.

Most cases are complaint-driven and typically involve a neighbor who calls the city customer service line (883-3111) to report high grass on a nearby property. If an inspector finds that the grass exceeds the one-foot threshold, the city sends the property owner notice of a violation by first class and certified mail, as required by state law.

Bossi said inspectors usually wait about three weeks to make sure the mailings were delivered and then proceed to the next stage of abatement: posting a notice of violation at the property for 10 days.

After that, officials reinspect the property and, if nothing has been done to correct the violation, they put together a work order for the lot to be moved. "We utilize private contractors that will go out and cut the grass, and then we bill the property owner," Bossi said. "The penalty pretty much is us having to do the correction or abatement for the violation, and the penalty is actually the fee that was charged to cut the grass. If the owner doesn't pay, typically within about 90 days, a lien is placed on the property."

SEE OVERGROWN/PAGE A2

An overgrown lot is shown off Centennial Street on Wednesday. Grass and weeds higher than 12 inches are considered a public nuisance, according to a city ordinance.

Officials said they find overgrown lot violations all over the city. Those involving vacant lots or houses can pose roadblocks for inspectors.

"Those have been the tricky ones, particularly if there is a foreclosure and there's not really a local person, and it may have gone back to the bank. Generally, we don't get a whole lot of good response from banks and lenders," Bossi said. "Those cases could take up to 45 days or maybe a little longer."

Inspectors usually process 20 or 25 work orders at a time.

"We do get a lot of complaints at the beginning of the growing season," she said. "The main thing is, it does have to exceed 12 inches and there has to be a concentration of it. It can't just be that somebody's lawn isn't manicured the way your's is."

SUBJECT: Citizens United and Constitutional Amendment Resolution – Council’s Ability to Act

During the July 17, 2012 City Council meeting, Paul and Barbara Carrano spoke to Council to request that Council consider adopting a resolution expressing the City’s opposition to the United States Supreme Court’s decision in Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission to regulate political speech by corporations and similar bodies through a constitutional amendment.

There is no prohibition in the City Charter, City Code, or the North Carolina General Statutes preventing the Council from acting on matters such as the discussion over the Citizens United case. If a majority of Council wishes to express an opinion on an issue such as this, it is free to do so.

If Councilmembers wish to consider a resolution supporting an amendment to the United States Constitution, which would overturn the Citizens United decision, and regulate corporate political speech, the members have several options. Councilmembers may: draft a resolution for consideration on their own; request staff assistance in drafting a resolution; or receive a draft resolution from third parties. Regardless of the source of the resolution, Councilmembers may request that the item be placed on a future agenda for consideration.

SUBJECT: Landfill and Solid Waste Transfer Station Debt Outstanding

The following is prepared in response to a question raised at the July 17, 2012 City Council meeting about the remaining debt outstanding for the White Street Landfill and the Transfer Station. In FY 2012, the City retired all remaining debt outstanding for the landfill, of which $16 million had originally been issued in 1997 and then subsequently refinanced in 2009. In 2005, $8.4 million of special obligation bonds was issued for construction of the transfer station, of which $5,385,000 remains outstanding as of June 30, 2012. Final maturity of this debt will be June 1, 2020.

SUBJECT: Neighborhood Small Projects Program Update

Neighborhood groups submit Neighborhood Small Projects Program (NSPP) applications to have capital projects built on public property in their neighborhood. Planning and Community Development administers the program, though the appropriate department implements each project after City Council adopts the recommendations. The NSPP team is comprised of representatives from six City departments and two Greensboro residents and scores applications on a scale of 1 to 5 on the following criteria. These criteria have been in use consistently since the program began in 1995:

- Community Benefit (weighted x 5)
- Community Support and Participation (weighted x 4)
- Community Need (weighted x 3)
- Partnering and Leveraging (weighted x 2)
- Impact on City Resources (no weighting)

Changes in Scoring

The Neighborhood Small Projects Program (NSPP) team is making a small change to the program’s scoring process, moving to a two-tiered system to make sure funds are fairly expended. This change will ensure that each City Council district initially has equal funds available for use but will not penalize neighborhoods that happen to be in a district with multiple applications. The system will involve two steps:

- In the first step, $20,000 would be available in each Council District and projects would be awarded funding based on how they scored against other projects in their district. This is the system that is currently in place.
- The second step would come into play if some districts use less than the full $20,000, while other districts have more than $20,000 worth of projects requested. In this case, the remaining eligible projects would be ranked City-wide, and the remaining funds applied to those projects in the order that they scored.

In the FY2010/2011 budget, City Council changed the program guidelines to spread the funding evenly to each City Council district, so that $20,000 was available in each of the 5 districts rather than having $100,000 City-wide. This also had what may be the unintended consequence of not funding some projects even though there was money available in the program budget.

FY 2011/2012 Budget

For the previous NSPP budget, only one application was received that met the program’s criteria, which was a proposal from the Aycock Neighborhood Association to build a monument-style neighborhood sign. The location is at the corner of Yanceyville Street and Bessemer Avenue, at the back of Aycock Middle School. The NSPP team scored the project high enough for it to move forward, and the Planning Board made a favorable recommendation to fund the project after a public hearing at its July 18th meeting. Field Operations will install the sign.

2012/2013 Budget Cycle
A new NSPP application is now available, and is on the City’s website. Staff has made a presentation to the Greensboro Neighborhood Congress and will work with a subcommittee of this organization this fall to make sure that the program is working well for our neighborhoods. The application will also be distributed by an email blast to existing email lists and to individual neighborhood associations.

SUBJECT: Liquid Road Pavement Preservation Seal Project

This memo is to update you on a pavement preservation test project for extending the life of asphalt on City streets that will take place the week of July 23rd.

Background
In an effort to find more cost-effective ways to maintain Greensboro’s streets, the Field Operations Department will treat all of the streets in the Bethany Woods neighborhood with a Liquid Road pavement preservation seal during the week of July 23rd. This petroleum-based liquid emulsion is designed to extend the life of asphalt 4-6 years by rejuvenating the asphalt binder in the pavement, and reversing the effect of aging due to environmental damage. By extending the life of the asphalt, the City hopes to extend the time between repaving treatments, which leads to cost-savings.

Streets scheduled for the treatment are:

- Bethany Trace
- Palm Tree Court
- Humble Road
- Triumphant Road
- Fig Leaf Court
- Walser Road
- Mt. Olive Drive
- Healing Well Drive
- Mt. Olive Drive
- Garden Place Road

Door hangers and flyers will be distributed throughout the neighborhood the day before treatment is scheduled. Motorists should use caution and obey posted traffic control when traveling in these areas.

If further is required, please advise.
